Board: Cut smoking in restaurants

By Don Staruk

The three members of the Board of Health Monday night took a hard line in the battle over smoking in public, recommending a total ban of smoking in restaurants, municipal buildings and town vehicles.

"I was encouraged by their firmness on the 100 percent (ban) on both municipal buildings and restaurants," Everett Penney,

The Lynch family has public service in its blood

By Don Staruk

Jackie Lynch started her new job as an Andover firefighter just this past November, but she has been a member of the firefighter family for 21 years. That's how long her father, Deputy Fire Chief James Lynch Jr., has been a member of the Andover Fire Department.

Public service must be in the family's blood because James Lynch Sr., her grandfather, was a member of the Andover Police Department for 40 years until he retired as a sergeant in 1971. Police Lt. Kevin Lynch is Deputy Lynch's cousin, and the lieutenant's brother, Larry Lynch, is a retired patrolman. Deputy Lynch also has two cousins in the fire department: Lt. David Lynch, assigned to West Station, and his brother, Raymond Lynch, at Ballardvale.

Jackie Lynch, 24, was born and raised in Andover and is a 1987 graduate of Andover High School. She took the Civil Service exam at her father's urging three years ago, but never really thought about actually doing the job.

"Dad wanted me to take the test, so I took it. It didn't even cross my mind until the job came up," she said.

She spent a year at Salem State College, took classes at Northern Essex Community College for business management and was working at the Lawrence Fire Fighters Municipal Credit Union as a teller when her name came

It's a great job

By Don Staruk

The routine of 14-hour shifts and working four days on, four days off, takes some getting used to, and for Firefighter Jackie Lynch, there is one part of her new job as an Andover firefighter that she could do without.

"Getting out of bed in the middle of the night."

But even that is bearable.

"Nothing is really bad yet because it's all exciting because you're learning," Ms. Lynch said last week.

And the best thing about her job is the people she works with, she said.

Ms. Lynch was never a "station rat," like the characters played by Kurt Russell and William Baldwin in the movie Backdraft, who hung around the fire station while their father worked. (She's only seen the movie once.) She didn't even like listening to the scanners.

"Actually, I hated them," she said.

River Road bridge could be closed six months

"Imperative" public meeting on I-93 bridge work set for Thursday, Jan. 27

By Don Staruk

"It's really imperative that people come to this meeting."

That was the warning this week from Laura Hill, senior town planner, regarding a scheduled public hearing on the state's proposal to close the River Road bridge over Interstate 93 for six months. No starting date for the project has been scheduled.

The public hearing is scheduled for Thursday, Jan. 27, at 7:30 p.m. at Greater Lawrence Technical School, 57 River Road. State highway engineers will be on hand to discuss concerns with the bridge closing and to hear suggested alternatives.

The proposed project is completely separate from the reconstruction work currently under way on River Road east of the bridge.

Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, told selectmen Monday night that the first he heard about the proposal to close River Road and replace the deck on the bridge was three or four weeks ago when the town received the notice of the public hearing from the state. The proposal calls for replacing the deteriorated bridge deck and center pier, according to the hearing notice.

Mr. Stapczynski said the closing would be a hardship for businesses on both sides of I-93, especially start-up companies.

"This would not serve them at all. It would have a detrimental effect on almost all the businesses and the residents who have to traverse that road," Mr. Stapczynski said.

It would also be a public safety issue for police and fire services, and a problem for school buses.

The state proposes to route traffic through the Route 495 interchange to the south and the Route 110/Route 113 interchange in Methuen to the north.

Selectman Gerald Silverman said I-93 traffic would have to go 15-18 miles out of the way to go around the river to the west on routes 110 and 133, or nine to 10 miles extra via Route 110, Route 28 and Route 133 back to the highway.

"To knock this bridge out you're knocking out the whole part of the community. Somebody doesn't know what they're doing," Mr. Silverman said.

State officials have heard the initial negative reaction from town officials, but contend that trying to leave one lane open on the bridge while the work is being performed would cause unacceptable backups on I-93, according to Ms. Hill. It would also delay the completion of the project for six months or possibly much longer.

Mr. Stapczynski said that in his search for support in finding an alternative to closing the bridge completely, the town has contacted the offices of state Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, state Sen. John D. O'Brien, D-Andover, Congressman Marty Meehan, D-Lowell, and former Lawrence Mayor Kevin Sullivan, who is now a deputy commissioner for the Massachusetts Highway Department. Andover officials have also contacted officials in other area towns, including Lawrence.

"I spoke with (Lawrence's) Mayor Kennedy myself and her Planning Board has been informed," Mr. Stapczynski said.

It's important that residents and businesses that would be affected by the closing of the bridge attend the meeting and let their feelings and concerns be known to state officials, Ms.

The Andover Republican Town Committee will host a forum on Thursday, Jan. 20, for Republican candidates for the United States Senate. The seat currently is held by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. The event will take place at the Andover Marriott on Old River Road at 8 p.m.

Party Chairman Jim Rappaport will act as moderator for this forum, one of several forums for Republican statewide candidates sponsored by the Massachusetts Republican Party. Town sets open burning season

This year's open air burning season has been set by the town for Jan. 15 through May 1. Anyone wishing to burn brush as allowed by the commonwealth's regulations will have to apply for a permit at the fire station.

The fee is $10, which covers the entire 1994 burning season. Once the permit has been issued, a number will be assigned and entered into the yearly burning log. Residents will have to call the fire station each day they wish to burn to see if weather conditions will allow burning. If burning is allowed, the person's name and permit number will be entered into the daily burning log. A copy of the commonwealth's regulations governing open air burning will be given at the time an application for a permit is made.

Computer group meets Jan. 18

The Merrimack Valley Computer Users Group, also known as the "MVCUG," a local chapter of the Boston Computer Society, will resume meetings and computer demonstrations on Tuesday, Jan. 18, at Northern Essex Community College Lawrence Campus, 45 Franklin St. (the former Prudential Building). The group had been meeting for almost three years at the Computers A La Carte store, in Lawrence, until the store closed recently.

The MVCUG is a non-profit organization of beginners, intermediate and advanced computer users who enjoy sharing their computer knowledge.

Disk operating system "DOS 6.0" and the newest version "DOS 6.2" will be the topic for the meeting.

There is no charge to attend meetings or demonstrations, which are held the first and third Tuesday of the month from 7 to 9 p.m. For more information, call 975-2546.

Workshop is about running for local office

Bill deals with student felonies

State Sen. John D. O'Brien, D-Andover, announces that "An Act Relative to Safety in Public Schools," House Bill 5440, has been signed into law. As a strong supporter of this bill, Sen. O'Brien was invited to join Gov. Weld as the bill was signed into law. House 5440 amends existing law to address the issue of school violence and proposes significant changes to the system to grant school officials the power to dismiss students who have been charged with felonies.

The bill deals with felonies committed by students off school grounds. Under the provisions of the bill, a school principal may suspend a student legally charged with a felony or if a delinquency complaint has been issued against the student, if the principal determines that the student's continued presence in school would have a substantial detrimental effect on the general welfare of the school, even if the event that triggered the complaint or charge occurred off school property.

According to the legislation, a student convicted of the felony may be expelled from school. The Senate added an amendment to the bill that requires the state to study the issue of alternative educational opportunities for students who are expelled under this act and safeguards the right of appeal.

Sen. O'Brien worked to shepherd this bill through the legislative process. The bill was submitted in direct response to an incident last year in which a student at Shawsheen Valley Technical High School in Billerica was charged with attempted murder and the principal was unable to deny the student admission back into school the following September.

"The rights of principals throughout the state to promote a safe and stable learning environment for students is of major importance," Sen. O'Brien said. "This is a significant piece of legislation and I am pleased to have played an instrumental part in the passage of this bill as it will go a long way to curtail the atmosphere of violence that has become all too prevalent in our schools."

Utilities could delay River Road reconstruction

By Don Staruk

Scheduling problems with the crews responsible for moving the utilities could cause delays in completion of the River Road reconstruction project.

"If there are any delays, that would be what the delays are over," Laura Hill, senior town planner, said this week.

The reconstruction of River Road, from Interstate 93 in West Andover to Route 114 in Lawrence, has been underway since last fall and is scheduled for completion by August 1995, according to the state contract. Middlesex Corp. was awarded the road construction contract by the state, but because Massachusetts Electric, New England Telephone and Bay State Gas have not coordinated their work crews to meet the construction schedule, the project is threatened with delays, Ms. Hill said.

"We are supposed to be done next year, but the thing has been delayed by the utilities," Ms. Hill said this week.

The utility schedules are totally different from the construction schedule, she said. The project calls for putting all utilities underground, but that is also in question, she said. Ms. Hill did not know how much the scheduling problems would affect the target completion date.

"There is no firm construction schedule because it all depends on the utilities," Ms. Hill said. "Right now what they're working on is drainage."

The project proposes to widen and reconstruct the present River Road/Andover Street between I-93 and Beacon Street in Lawrence to provide additional lanes for through traffic, and auxiliary lanes for turning movements. Additional widening will also be done between Beacon Street and Route 114 in Lawrence.

Traffic signals will be installed at the intersection with Federal Street and Old River Road, and at North Street. North Street will end at a single intersect with River Road and align with a relocated driveway for Greater Lawrence Technical School.

A raised median will prevent turning across oncoming traffic from Federal Street to North Street, and a painted median will continue east from North Street, providing easier access for businesses.

The proposal has been in the works since 1983. The improvements are meant to accommodate increased traffic from the new industrial developments on River Road. The project has required land takings and permanent and temporary easements, all of which have been arranged by the state.

Public hearing

About 30 residents and several representatives from several area businesses, including Riverview Commons, Doyle Lumber, Hewlett-Packard, Vicor Corp., Tage Inn, Grill 93 and the Andover Marriott, attended a public hearing on the project hosted by the state on Wednesday, Jan. 5, at Greater Lawrence Technical School. Most questions were regarding tree cuts or utility work.

Several businesses are concerned with the possibility of utilities being out of service for long periods of time and how that would affect their businesses, according to Ms. Hill.

Any road closings will only be brief, and River Road is not expected to be completely blocked for any significant lengths of time during the reconstruction, she said.

The state is overseeing the project, but residents with any questions should call the town Department of Public Works and talk to Robert McQuade, director, or Brian Moore, assistant town engineer, or call the town manager's office.

Residents can also contact Frank Suszynski, resident project engineer, who has an office on the site and is at the construction site daily.

No more hearings on the reconstruction project are currently scheduled, but Ms. Hill said there probably will be one in the spring when construction activity will increase.

Birnbach, Josephson to run for School Committee spot

By Neil Fater

David Birnbach, of 50B Washington Park, and William J. Josephson, of 203 Salem St., have taken out papers to run for School Committee, according to the town clerk's office.

Papers were picked up for Mr. Birnbach Wednesday morning, Jan. 12, and Mr. Josephson picked up papers Friday morning, Jan. 7.

They will vie for the two seats available on the committee currently occupied by Chairwoman Susan Dalton and Susan Jenkins. Ms. Jenkins has picked up her papers to seek re-election, but Ms. Dalton has yet to do so.

The slots are for three-year terms.

Mr. Birnbach was unavailable for comment at presstime. He has no children in the school system, his father said, and had been on the committee previously, said school board sources.

Mr. Josephson is self-employed and president of William James Associates, a human resources consulting firm.

"In essence what I'm doing is helping private companies find the people that they are looking for," he said of his position.

He has lived in Andover for 12 years. He and his wife, Judith, have a son in kindergarten at Bancroft and a daughter in preschool, currently two years away from entering public school.

"The fact that my children are going to be in the school system for 15 years," he said, "this is a long-range king of thing for me. I'm somebody who's going to be around for the long haul.

"First and foremost, this really regards my children and their futures," he said of his decision to run. "I would like to see the best quality of education that the school system can provide."

Mr. Josephson is co-chairperson of the Bancroft Overcrowding Task Force and a member of the School Council there.

He specializes in helping companies find computer programming professionals and said this would assist him in his role of committee member should he be elected.

He said his experience could help him to make technology a larger part of the curriculum and that he knows what companies are looking for in employees, so students "can compete for the better paying jobs in the next century."

He said his previous position as a mental health counselor at McLean Psychiatric Hospital in Belmont could help him regarding issues such as self-esteem.

"Having very high, positive self-esteem is important. It seems that people are looking at the school to deal with social issues," he said. "We need to do whatever possible to maintain and (to) better academic standards."

Mr. Josephson said he supports the proposed additions to the schools, inclusion, and ability grouping in its current form. However, he has serious questions about full inclusion.

"I believe we ought to include whenever feasible. But my concerns for full inclusion are academic standards, and teachers teaching 29 students of such a wide disparity," that standards are weakened, he said. "Realistically there are situations where (inclusion) is just not appropriate. I'm concerned a greater number of students will become bored in the classroom."

Mr. Josephson said he does not want special-needs students to lose self esteem because they can't keep up, and he stresses full effort from all students.

"We can never control whether we are going to win," he said, "but we can control our effort."

In other election news, three residents are running for one seat on the Housing Authority. The position, which is for a five-year term, will be vacated by Eileen M. Connolly.

Rolande A. Werner, 500C Brookside Drive; Susan J. Hancock, 21 Memorial Circle; and James A. Cuticchia, 127 Greenwood Road, have all taken out nomination papers.

[The Townsman will run profiles of the candidates in future issues. In the meantime, readers who wish to write letters to the editor about issues and/or candidates are encouraged to do so.]

Letters about candidates will be published except for in the last issue before the elections. Letters about Town Meeting warrant articles and issues will be published up until Town Meeting. Letters that are obvious letter writing campaigns will not all be printed.]

How to run for public office

Any registered Andover voter may become a candidate for office.

According to the Andover Town Handbook, to run for election a person must obtain nomination papers from the town clerk at town offices on Bartlet Street and have a specific number of registered voters sign these papers. This number is equal to 1 percent of those who voted in the most recent election for governor. The candidate must then sign and return the papers to the town clerk's office by 5 p.m., 42 days before the election.

Nomination papers must be filed by Feb. 8. The town election is March 28.

Help from the League

The League of Women Voters of Andover will hold a free public workshop on how to run for local office, on Tuesday, Jan. 18, at 6 p.m. at the school administration building at Whittier Court. See page 3 for details.

Hope for very ill patients

Hale Hospital in Haverhill, in conjunction with Home Health VNA, is forming a new support group called "Healing with Hope" for people coping with cancer, AIDS and other life-challenging illnesses.

The non-judgmental environment will focus on supporting patients' lives, not just their illness, and emphasize choice, risk-taking and spiritual and emotional growth.

Healing with Hope will meet once a week, beginning Thursday, Jan. 20, from 2 to 4 p.m. in the board room at Hale Hospital and is free of charge. Preregistration is required. Each session will begin and end with a relaxation or meditation exercise.

The group will be led by Kim Snow, LICSW, director of social services at Hale Hospital, and Liz Fotinos, LCSW, Home Health VNA liaison MSW.

Last Feb. 28 the Addison Gallery held a surprise 90th birthday party for Ms. Morgan with 400 of her closest friends, including artist Frank Stella, architect Graham Gund, Gardner Museum director Ann Hawley and Florence Ladd of Radcliffe's Bunting Institute.

ern Art, Museum of Fine Arts and the Whitney. The Addison Gallery held a retrospective of her work in 1977 and a display of her latest works at the birthday party last year.

In addition to painting, Ms. Morgan has been active in nuclear disarmament causes and she is a strong spokeswoman for intergenerational communication.

An indomitable person, she spent six months in her late 70s traveling around Africa by herself, getting around on makeshift public buses.

Jock Reynolds, director of the Addison Gallery, met Ms. Morgan when he was a student at Phillips.

"I continue to know her as an active and wonderful artist," Mr. Reynolds said this week.

"(The gallery) has just received a collection of screen prints, which she produced in the '60s and '70s. They will be seen in the exhibition in the spring."

Raytheon scores another

The U.S. Navy and Raytheon Company used a Standard Missile-2 (SM-2) Block IV missile to intercept a small, supersonic, very high altitude target recently at the White Sands Missile Range in New Mexico. Raytheon is the developer and designer for this improved version of the Standard Missile, already being produced by the company.

The recent exercise was the seventh consecutive successful flight of an SM-2 Block IV missile and the fourth in a series of eight tests designed to demonstrate its capabilities against a variety of high performance aerial targets.

Cleaning up the environment

Jeffrey P. Beale of Andover, president of CH-IV Corporation of Lawrence, introduced an advanced concept for fueling natural gas vehicles at Metha-Motion, Europe's first major NGV conference. Mr. Beale presented CH-IV's LCNG system to an audience, representing 22 countries. The LCNG system uses liquefied natural gas (LNG) to produce compressed natural gas (CNG).

Mr. Beale explained how the LCNG system results in capital cost reductions of 30 percent to 70 percent over the conventional CNG systems requiring gas compressors. He illustrated how operating and maintenance costs of the system are only about 10 percent as much.

Mr. Beale pointed out that although most European countries have LNG facilities, CH-IV is targeting the United States market initially because of its more strict air-quality mandates. The U.S. has more than 30,000 CNG vehicles

He has performed inspections for more than 10 years.

Mr. Maida holds three state licenses related to the field of building inspection.

on the road. Various organizations project this number to grow to as many as 1.2 million by the turn of the century.

"Natural gas is the cleanest and lowest cost of all of today's viable alternative fuels," Mr. Beale said. "Unfortunately, the cost of entry for fleet managers has caused a significant disincentive to convert to this clean fuel. Our LCNG system is much lower in cost and as such may serve to jumpstart the use of CNG in many areas of the United States. It isn't often that a company has an opportunity to clean up the environment and improve its bottom line."

Mr. Beale is also internationally known for his design and operating expertise on LNG import and export terminals. CH-IV Corporation is a Massachusetts corporation specializing in liquefied natural gas and associated natural gas and cryogenic technologies and services as applied to vehicle fuels, base-load energy supplies and natural gas peak-shaving requirements.

The missile, launched from an MK-41 vertical launch system, intercepted a target drone traveling at supersonic speed. The missile's advanced guidance, fusing and warhead performed flawlessly, resulting in the destruction of the target and successful completion of all test objectives.

"Block IV's performance continues to be most impressive," said Captain Robert Wilson, the Navy's Standard Missile program manager, "and its enhanced capabilities form a cornerstone for the Navy's new role in ballistic missile defense."

William H. Swanson, senior vice president and general manager of Raytheon's Missile Systems Division, said the test "again demonstrated SM-2 Block IV's capabilities against challenging targets."

"The four guidance tests we have conducted to date have demonstrated SM-2 Block IV at medium, high and very high altitudes, as required both for the missile's expanded anti-aircraft warfare mission and for its future role in tactical ballistic missile defense."

Plans call for the Block IV to provide the fleet with an area defense capability against tactical ballistic missiles.

Johanna Webster earns Century 21 Centurion award

In the midst of an uncertain economy, Johanna Webster of Century 21 McLennan and Co. has earned the Centurion award, one of the highest levels of recognition awarded to the top-producing sales associates and offices in the Century 21 system.

A sales associate must achieve a specific, high level of production to be considered for Centurion status. Only about 2 percent of the tens of thousands of sales associates in the Century 21 system achieve this honor.

"I believe that the key to achieving this level of success is simply a matter of priorities," said Ms. Webster.

"Quality customer service is my number-one priority. This special Centurion designation is a direct result of consistently exceeding my customers' expectations."

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

by Ronald R. Hill, CLU, ChFC

NEW COLLEGE AID GUIDELINES

As of January 1, 1993, homeowners seeking federal college financial aid to help pay their children's tuition costs may get a break. Starting with the '93-'94 school year, federal guidelines no longer take into consideration a family's home equity when determining its need for such loans as Stafford loans. This most recent ruling may help families qualify for larger government loans and grants than they were previously able to. On the other hand, the guidelines do not affect colleges, many of which will continue to reduce their own aid packages to families with home equity. Some colleges, however, have adopted a new aid formula that limits total home equity to three times family income, minus the amount of any outstanding mortgage. Another vehicle which may not be considered accessible to colleges in their financial aid determinations is the cash value build-up within life insurance. Many families now take this into account in structuring their long-term investment programs.

As Tax laws change, let me help you by putting my ten years of experience to work for you! I am a Chartered Financial Consultant. Call Baystate Financial Services at 475-9212, so we can work out a financial plan that is right for you. My Andover office is located at 10 Essex Street. I also have an office at 100 N. Washington Street in Boston (617-523-4600). Why not start off the New Year with a complete review of your financial plan? Written and verbal references are available on request.

HINT: People with college-bound kids may want to think twice about taking a capital gain that would increase income in the year they apply for college aid.

The council annually reviews key adolescent health and social issues such as substance abuse, teen pregnancy and parenting, youth violence, AIDS and HIV, smoking, family violence and abuse, homelessness, nutrition, fitness and access to adolescent sensitive services.

Ms. McGarry has a bachelor of arts degree in sociology/psychology from Northeastern University. She is a registered nurse and a licensed clinical social worker, having worked for the Department of Public Welfare, Division of Child Guardianship.

For the past 12 years Ms. McGarry has been program director of Teen Health Services at Saints Memorial Medical Center, which provides medical and psychiatric services to adolescents. Teen Health Services operates a clinic at Saints Memorial Medical Center and a satellite clinic at Lowell High

IF THE PRICE ISN'T RIGHT

A Realtor has shown you a house that you like a lot. There is only one problem - you think the price is too high. If you run into this situation, you should consider making an offer at less than the asking price.

The Realtor cannot tell you how much to offer, but he or she can give you information about sales prices for similar homes in the area. After you make an offer, the agent will present it to the sellers. They will have three choices. They can reject it outright, they can counter it at more than you have offered but less than they are asking, or they might accept it. If the house is newly listed or if your offer is very low, they may decide to hold out for something better. Often, however, sellers build at least a little bargaining room into the asking price. Prices that are not negotiable at the beginning of a listing period may become increasingly flexible as time goes on. The only way to test the sellers' flexibility is to put an offer in writing and see what happens.

If there's a move in your future, the real estate specialists at Century 21 Carriage House are ready to serve you. Feel free to visit our office at 10 High Street, or phone us at 475-1243.

Bancroft School teaches students how to be leaders

The emphasis this year at Bancroft School is to "Be a Leader." Principal Debra Dunn explained that the school-wide program encourages a shared responsibility among children for their own performance, as well as the overall atmosphere of the school.

For the past two years, Bancroft children have been actively committed to a school-wide theme displayed on a simple triangular logo with the words Kindness - Safety - Learning.

Now in its third year, this theme has been expanded to include promoting qualities of leadership.

In September, with the help of their teachers, children in each homeroom developed a "classroom constitution," stating their beliefs and goals for the year. Early in the year, fifth-graders elected to help re-write the Andover elementary school Code of Behavior so that it could be understood by even the primary-age children.

The finished product is a pamphlet entitled "Bancroft - Be a Leader."

Keeping in mind the readability level of their youngest classmates, fifth-graders wrote simply to explain clearly expectations of all children, stressed the importance of being a role model and, in some areas, offered advice. According to their pamphlet, a "leader" is someone who chooses to pick up a piece of litter rather than walk by it; a "leader" is someone, upon hearing unkind words, reminds others, "We don't do that at Bancroft." A "leader" is someone who takes school very seriously and tries his or her absolute best.

The "Be a Leader" pamphlet was shared with Bancroft students at grade-level assemblies with their principal. All children were required to read the pamphlet at home with parents and both parent and child signed a contract of commitment to the program.

As part of the program, homeroom representatives meet throughout the year with the principal to discuss goals for improvement. These are then written in a weekly or biweekly "Message from the Principal" to be shared with all children and reinforced by teachers and instructional assistants.

At the end of each semester, children will complete a self-assessment to accompany their report card. Each child will assess themselves in the areas of leadership as it relates to kindness, safety and learning. In addition, children will set personal goals for improvement for the following term. According to Ms. Dunn, the response to this year's theme from Bancroft students, as well as teachers and parents, has been highly favorable. "The partnership between home and school is key to the success of any good school. Children need to see that their parents place the importance of the school experience above all else. We are asking parents to join us in deliberately focusing on the positive attributes of leadership within their child. Our faculty's goal is to help every child achieve their personal best," she said.

The following Bancroft students have been recognized by Bancroft's principal for their overall exemplary performance in the Be-a-Leader program for the first quarter of the 1993-'94 school year:

Your Dental HEALTH

by Richard D. Hopgood, D.M.D.

AN EXCELLENT COVER-UP

A veneer is a rigid shell of pre-formed porcelain, composite resin, or plastic which is applied (laminated) to the outer surface of a stained or damaged tooth. It is predominantly used to cover a front tooth that is chipped, worn, severely stained, or eroded at the gum line. The two-step process of veneer application is more expensive than bonding, but it is likely to produce longer lasting results. At the same time, veneers are less expensive than crowns and require less tooth reduction than crowning. In the first of at least two office visits, the dentist prepares a tooth for a veneer by removing a little of its surface. An impression is then taken, which is sent to the lab for casting the veneer. In the second visit, the veneer is firmly bonded to the tooth.

Don't let the presence of stained, chipped, or otherwise less than perfect teeth keep you from smiling. There are many ways that cosmetic dentistry can turn your smile into one you'll be proud to show. For veneers and other cosmetic avenues toward a brighter smile, please call us at 475-2431. Located at 206 Lowell Street.

With easy access off Rt 93, we invite you and all your family members to make an appointment for quality, gentle dental care Mon & Thur 10-8, Tues & Fri. Have a happy, healthy 1994. P.S. A deep pocket of infection around teeth may require flap surgery to surgically fold over a section of gum for extensive scaling and planing.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

EVERYDAY PRESSURES

One of the more common causes of back pain is a bulging (herniated) disc that puts pressure on a nearby spinal nerve. Discs are the shock-absorbing rings of fibrous tissue that lie between the bones of the back. By exerting pressure on the discs through bending, twisting, standing, or sitting, we set ourselves up for the potential for back pain. The least possible strain is placed on our backs when we lie down flat on our backs. By simply standing up, we exert three times as much pressure on our discs as when we are lying down. Sitting exerts even more pressure (four times the pressure of lying flat). Correctly lifting a box of medium weight exerts five times the pressure of lying down, while lifting with incorrect technique increases disc pressure to ten times that of lying down.

Many people of all ages suffer with back pain. If you have been unable to find relief and would like an option other than drugs or surgery, please consider chiropractic. Call today, DeLorenzo Chiropractic Group, 475-5042, for an appointment. Our personal concern is your health. Our office is located at 15 Central Street.

P.S. Because the discs can take a good deal of abuse, we may assume that a lack of pain gives us little reason for concern.

Doherty students enjoy festival of Kings

The eighth-grade French classes at Doherty Middle School have just finished a short study of the December-January holidays in France.

The students at Doherty celebrated the Day of the Kings last Thursday, Jan. 6. To learn what this day is like, the students enjoyed a fete des Rois, or festival of the Kings. According to French tradition, the revelers are served a large cake (la galette) in which a bean (la fève) has been baked. In modern days, a 1-inch plastic figure of a king has replaced the traditional bean in most celebrations. The person who gets the bean in his or her piece of cake is crowned king or queen for the festivities and chooses a consort. They rule the rest of the celebration together. The king and queen can tell people in their "court" to do silly things, which must be done, or a consequence results. Whenever the king or queen drinks, everyone must stop what is being done and give a toast, saying "Le Roi boit!" ("The King drinks!") or "La Reine boit!" ("The Queen drinks!").

Cupcakes were served instead of a galette, but a real plastic fève from France was placed inside one of the cupcakes. The students drank apple juice instead of vin blanc (white wine) and grape juice instead of vin rouge (red wine). Jennifer L. Thomas of Main Street found the fève in her cupcake and chose Thomas S. Hodgson of Highland Road as her consort. One of the silly things some people had to do was jump around the room as if on a pogo stick.

A few days before these festivities, the students had read aloud a short comedy about a fete des Rois in a doctor's home in France so they were well prepared for their own celebration.

Essex Aggie has aid workshop

Carol McKeon, guidance counselor at Essex Agricultural High School, encourages parents of seniors to attend a financial aid workshop tonight, Thursday, Jan. 13, at 7 p.m. at Essex Agricultural High School.

John Snell, an expert on college financial aid and financial planning, will be the guest speaker. Free Applications for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) forms will be distributed and parents will be taken step-by-step through the form.

Law professor Lani Guinier is Phillips' 1994 Stearns Lecturer

Lani Guinier, a professor of law at the University of Pennsylvania and one-time nominee for Assistant Attorney General for Civil Rights, will speak at Phillips Academy this Thursday, Jan. 13, at 8 p.m. in the school's Cochran Chapel. Her talk will be on "The New Civil Rights." The public is invited at no charge.

A graduate of Radcliffe College and Yale Law School, (where she attended with President and Mrs. Clinton), Ms. Guinier became a celebrity and national voice on race relations when the President revoked the nomination that would have made her head of the Justice Department's civil rights division.

President Clinton, her long-time friend, read some of her writings and branded her ideas "anti-democratic," saying that she "seemed to advocate proportional representation" and declared that hearing her out would "provoke a bloody and divisive conflict over civil rights."

In the months since her nomination was withdrawn, audiences and media throughout the country are finding Professor Guinier's message differs from that which was promulgated earlier. According to The Washington Post National Weekly Edition,

"Having the voices of minorities as well as the majority be heard is so important to Guinier that she is willing to rethink some basic rules of American democracy to get there... She also ardently opposes quotas, a point that Washington overlooked."

Prof. Guinier, whose specialty is the Voting Rights Act, was a special assistant in the Justice Department's civil rights division and a successful litigator with the NAACP Legal Defense and Education Fund. During her lecture she will share what she would have said had she been allowed a Senate Judiciary Committee confirmation hearing.

Phillips Academy's Alfred E. Stearns Lectureship was established in 1926 by Thomas Cochran, class of 1890 and trustee 1923-'26, in honor of Alfred E. Stearns, ninth headmaster of the academy from 1903 to 1933. Other Stearns Lecturers include poets Robert Frost and Archibald MacLeish; Dr. Jonas Salk; activist Dick Gregory; Senators Daniel P. Moynihan and Paul Tsongas; Admiral Stansfield Turner; and Phillips Academy alumni, former president George Bush '42 and astrophysicist Lyman Spitzer '40.

Frank Serna, left, and Norma Villarreal, of 349 S. Main St., chat with Democratic candidate for governor, Rep. Mark Roosevelt, D-Boston, during a reception at the home of Perry and Lois Karfunkel, 22 Orchard Crossing, Tuesday night, Jan. 11. Approximately 25 residents, including Ellen Murphy, former legislative candidate, had the chance to meet the candidate, hear his platform speech and discuss issues with Rep. Roosevelt during his two-hour visit, according to former School Committee member Christopher Outwin, who hosted the event and said attendance was "good for a cold night." "Everybody was favorably impressed," Mr. Outwin said. Rep. Roosevelt has represented the Beacon Hill/Back Bay area of Boston since 1986. His knowledge of state affairs and issues is "encyclopedic," Mr. Outwin said. Mr. Roosevelt knocked the Republican rhetoric of being pro-business, and said he would do more to create tax credits and ease the way for new businesses to get state assistance. "He's not fond of gambling boats on the Merrimack River or gambling boats in Boston Harbor," as a way to raise money for the state," Mr. Outwin said.

"They were just so noisy. I didn't know what any of that meant."

Ms. Lynch said her dad was a big reason for her taking the job.

"A lot for my dad. He's done so well. It was a good opportunity. And for myself too," she said.

Deputy Lynch said his father also encouraged him to go into public service.

"He encouraged me, right after I came out of the service, to take the exams, which I didn't do for five years," the deputy said.

Deputy Lynch graduated Andover High School in 1964, and went to Franklin Institute in Boston for automotive technology to become a mechanic, graduating in 1966.

"I graduated in May and was drafted in September."

He served two years with the Army's armored division in Chu Lai, Vietnam, working as a tank crewman, which had its advantages.

"Fortunately, I didn't have to walk."

He came home in 1968 and worked as a mechanic six days a week at what is now the Rolling Green Mobil gasoline station, but jumped at the chance to join the department as a probationary firefighter in 1973. He remained a probationary member until he took the civil service exam three years later.

"I wasn't made permanent until October, 1976."

Deputy Lynch, like his daughter, was assigned to Central Station, which he liked because it had more activity.

"I was assigned to the ambulance for nine years, so again I had a ride."

Making dad proud

Ms. Lynch said her father is proud she has joined the department.

"Oh. He loves it. He's happy as can be."

Her mother, Judy, and her grandparents are also pleased.

"They're thrilled too."

Ms. Lynch lives at home with her parents, although she sees less of her dad now that they are working opposite shifts.

And she has taken some ribbing for her family connections.

"A little bit. Not much. I was really expecting more, let's put it that way."

Deputy Lynch said he has recruited a lot of people into public service because he believes in it.

"I believe it's a lot more secure than say, working for any of the big companies," Deputy Lynch said. "I'm a believer in hiring town people. When you have someone who lives in town, they've spent the time here, the family pays taxes here. The town should encourage people to take the exams."

Ms. Lynch has a younger sister, Jamie, 19, a student at Plymouth State College studying childhood education, and a younger brother, Andy, 16, a sophomore at Andover High School. She doesn't think her sister will follow her father's or grandfather's footsteps, but isn't so sure about her brother.

Firefighter Jackie Lynch: It's a great job

"Having a lot of people around you that care about you - it's nice to know that you're working as a team," she said. "I love it. It's great. Everybody's really nice. I'm learning a lot. Best move I ever made."

She is in Unit 4, which she calls "the best unit."

She works two day shifts, 8 a.m.-6 p.m., two night shifts, 6 p.m.-8 a.m., then has four days off. She worked full-time, 8 a.m.-4 p.m., everyday when she first started last November so she could meet all the members of the department and see how each unit does things differently and how they are set up. She is assigned to Central Station on Main Street. West Station is at the corner of Greenwood and Chandler roads in West Andover, and Ballardvale is at the corner of Clark Road and Andover Street.

Checking the gear

Ms. Lynch starts each shift by trying on her "turn-out gear," the clothing and equipment she wears to a fire, then putting it on Engine 1, the vehicle to which she's assigned, so it's ready to go. That equipment includes her "Scott tank," the self contained breathing apparatus she needs in case she has to go into a heavy smoke situation.

Since the firefighters sleep and eat at the station during their 14-hour shifts, they are each responsible for one area they are to keep clean for the entire shift. Ms. Lynch's area is the day room, a kind of lounge and reading area upstairs in the station. Since she is still new, Ms. Lynch spends much of her time on the job just trying to learn the location and operation of all the equipment. She is also studying for her Emergency Medical Technician certification, for which she goes to school two nights a week. She hopes to be certified by June. She expects to attend the Massachusetts Firefighting Academy in Stowe, Mass., next November.

She has not seen much fire fighting action so far.

"I've been to one brush fire."

But the fire trucks are often the first to respond to medical emergencies.

"I'm sure my dad will try to persuade him," Ms. Lynch said.

"When the time comes, if he's inclined that way, I probably would. I'd be proud to have him," Deputy Lynch said.

Other families in department

The Lynch family is not the first or only family to have more than one member working for the police and fire departments.

Hector Pattullo retired as a lieutenant on the police department four Jackie Lynch at her recent swearing in ceremony.

"So I've seen a couple of deaths."

"Right now I'm just the gofer," Ms. Lynch said.

Being the new kids on the block, she, Matt Burke and Phil Boulanger, who were both hired at the same time as she was, run the errands and do the little extra chores around the department. Mr. Burke graduated from Andover High School in 1987 with Ms. Lynch.

Strength test

Ms. Lynch said her dad was encouraging, but didn't pull any strings to get her the job.

"He had the idea of me taking the test, but that was all."

She completed the civil service exam for firefighters and the firefighters' strength test to get the job.

The strength test has six events. One event is to carry a 125-pound dummy on her shoulders up a flight of stairs and onto a platform, then down a ladder and where she had to place the dummy back on the ground in a set amount of time.

She climbed a 60-foot ladder in full gear, raised and lowered a weight with a pulley, and dragged a full-length hose on an out-and-back course, all within time limits.

But she didn't have to slide down the fire pole at Central Station.

"No. That was not required."

She is confident in her strength and her knowledge of the equipment, but has never been in a fire and still doesn't know what to expect of herself in a fire.

She is one of two women on the force, along with Mary Ann Frechette, but like Ms. Frechette, Ms. Lynch wants to be treated "just like the rest of them," regardless of her sex.

"I do the same things they do," Ms. Lynch said.

Well. Not everything. She has already asked Firefighter Frechette about some gender-related issues, such as what to wear to bed when you're bunking in a room with all men, separated by only a curtain. The only problem she hasn't overcome is that the members of her unit like to sleep with the window open, and it sometimes gets a little cold.

years ago, but two sons, Patrolman Don Pattullo and Sgt. Brian Pattullo, are both members of the police department, and a third son, Cliff, is a firefighter.

Lt. Phillip Froburg is a member of the police force and his brother, Patrolman Frank Froburg, just retired last year.

Fire Lt. Gerry Stabile is at Ballardvale Station while two sons, Robert and Stephen, are firefighters assigned to Central Station.

Three brothers, Lt. Arthur Keeler and firefighters Russell and Charles Keeler were all on the fire department at one time but are all now retired.

Fire Lt. Richard Merola and his son, Firefighter Wayne Merola, are both still on the force.

Deputy Lynch said family members are usually assigned to different groups.

"They're not assigned regularly to being on the same unit together. They try to mix them up - especially if they live in the same house," he said, glancing at his daughter with a smile.

Board of Health recommends no smoking in all restaurants health director, said after the meeting.

The move came during the board's review of a bylaw proposal that health officials are preparing for presentation to voters at April Town meeting. The bylaw includes "regulations affecting smoking and the sale, vending and distribution of tobacco in Andover."

The board will hold a public hearing on the proposal at its next meeting, Monday, Feb. 14, at 6 p.m. in town offices. A second public hearing may also be held before the board passes the proposal on to the Board of Selectmen for inclusion in the April Town Meeting warrant.

The ban on smoking in restaurants would apply to all restaurants, regardless of seating capacity. The current state law only requires restaurants with 75 or more seats to provide a nonsmoking area. Bars in restaurants would be included in the ban. The ban would not affect other bars, defined in the bylaw as establishments where the primary concern is the sale of alcohol and food service is incidental.

Restaurants that chose to totally separate a bar from the restaurant, with separating walls and independent heating, ventilation and air conditioning systems, would be allowed to petition the Zoning Board of Appeals for a variance.

The same recourse would be available to municipal employees. The smoking room in town offices, renovated last year when the rest of that building went to nonsmoking, would no longer be allowed under the new bylaw and employees would have to seek a variance to revive it.

The smoking room at town offices, with its separate ventilation system, cost $10,000 to build, according to Mr. Penney. Similar facilities in other town buildings, should they be allowed, could cost $3,000 to $5,000, even in the smaller town buildings, according to Fred Childs, newest member of the health board. Mr. Childs wanted to retain an area for smokers in municipal buildings, so as not to offend the smokers, but in the end sided with the other two members for a total ban.

"Our view is unanimous that we're against smoking in public buildings and the vehicles," Mr. Childs said.

The ban would affect the public safety center on Main Street, outlying fire stations, highway and municipal maintenance buildings, the Water Treatment Plant, town offices, Old Town Hall and any other public buildings. The board stopped short of proposing a ban on smoking on all town property, as was done in the state Education Reform Act of 1993 for school property. Mr. Penney had pushed for the ban on all town property.

"Personally, I hope that's the way the board goes, but that's your decision," Mr. Penney told board members.

The ban includes hotels and motels, but allows smoking in rented rooms designated for smokers. It excludes hotel and motel conference rooms and public and private assembly rooms when they are being used for private functions.

The board briefly discussed making an exemption to the ban for Old Town Hall during private functions, but ultimately decided against that exemption.

"As far as I'm concerned, I wouldn't make that exclusion. Let's be consistent. What the hell. It's a fire trap too," said Mr. Childs.

Board members opted to include town vehicles in the ban after Mr. Penney told them he had had complaints from town employees who have to share a vehicle with smokers. The ban will not affect private vehicles used for work.

Made amendable

Health board members asked Joanne Martel, health department code enforcement officer and chief author of the proposal, to write the ban on smoking in restaurants so that it could be easily amended at Town Meeting should residents decide they don't want a total ban and instead want to limit the percentage of allowed smoking to, for instance, 10 or 25 percent of the seating.

Stephen Loring, health board member, opposed allowing any smoking. If you have people smoking, it contaminates the entire area anyway, Mr. Loring said. He said that if the restaurant wanted to build a hermetically sealed area for smoking, owners could petition for a variance for that area.

Workplace sidestepped

Members chose not to deal with controls on smoking in the workplace this time around. Although Ms. Martel had prepared a section of the bylaw dealing with that issue, board members felt more research is needed before attempting to move on that.

Mr. Childs predicted a "lively debate" on the smoking article at Town Meeting.

Ms. Martel and Mr. Penney said they would have liked to take on the workplace issue as well, but were very pleased with the board's consideration of the bulk of the proposal.

"I was very excited. They worked very hard on this," Ms. Martel said. "I think that it's a good thing and I'm glad they're in support of it."

What restaurant owners say

By Alix Driscoll

At least 85 percent of the restaurant patrons in Andover are nonsmokers. Several local eating establishments that have lounges don't allow smoking in the main dining room. Some restaurant managers would welcome a town bylaw that prohibited smoking when dining.

These are the results of an informal Andover Townsman survey this week of restaurant and banquet facilities in town.

The high number of nonsmokers today seems to be due to national heightened consciousness about the dangers caused by smoking. It was 30 years ago this week the United States surgeon general announced the proven medical hazards to health from direct smoking.

With the increasing evidence of risk to health caused by secondary smoke, that is smoke inhaled by non-smokers, there is a

Not everyone is pleased with no-smoking proposal

Tom McCarron, the resident who is pushing for McDonald's restaurant on North Main Street to ban smoking, told members of the Board of Health Monday night he had 14 calls after his comments about banning smoking were published in the Townsman last week.

"I received 12 calls that were negative and two positive," Mr. McCarron said.

The two positive were offers of support. None of the callers who made negative comments left his or her name. They were mostly women and none were kids. The comments ranged from attacks on Mr. McCarron's heritage, ("a drunken Irishman"), to attacks on his ability as a parent, saying that because he didn't want his child in a smoke-filled restaurant, he was raising a (wimp).

"They just screamed at the top of their lungs, 'I want to smoke,'" Mr. McCarron said.

"A couple people wrapped themselves in the flag," claiming they had a right to free speech and to smoke.

One caller said smokers,

'A couple people wrapped themselves in the flag,' claiming they had a right to free speech and to smoke.

through the tobacco taxes they pay, are supporting President Clinton's health care proposal. Another suggested that Mr. McCarron was talking out both sides of his mouth, complaining about unhealthy smoke while allowing his son to eat McDonald's food.

"I guess that has some validity, but it's not the point," Mr. McCarron said.

"I was surprised at the amount of anger some of the people had. They seem to have problems far greater than the smoking issue."

[Editor's note: See page 31 for a letter to the editor about the smoking issue.]

What some Andover restaurant owners say

growing issue of smoking policies in the close seating proximity of public restaurants.

Local Board of Health bylaw now

If an Andover restaurant has 75 or more seats it must provide a 2,000-square-foot non-smoking area, according to Andover's bylaw. [See related story about that bylaw possibly being changed at April Town Meeting.]

Smaller restaurants

The Townsmen survey showed that the smaller Andover restaurants, those with less than 75 seats, have a large proportion of space devoted to non-smokers. They are not required by town law to designate non-smoking areas but do set aside from 50 to 80 percent space for nonsmokers. Several said they customarily add seats to the non-smoking areas when demand is high. Owners and managers report the large non-smoking areas are driven by customer requests.

Priscilla DiBlasi, co-owner of Santina's Restaurant at 516 S. Main St., doesn't put out ashtrays. She said often her customers speak to smokers and ask them to stop smoking.

Several ban smoking entirely

Bruegger's Bagel Bakery, on Main Street, has a corporate no-smoking policy in all its new stores in the last two years, said the manager, John Stilianos.

The Best of Thymes, located in Shawsheen Plaza, bans smoking. It has 16 seats.

"A few ask and we say we're sorry. We ask smokers to put it out or eat outside," said manager Janice Fontanella. She explained there are tables outside in the warm weather.

Dunkin' Donuts on North Main Street, which has 19-20 seats, went non-smoking last month. The Main Street store, which has only a handful of seats, has been nonsmoking since it opened last year.

Friendly's, on North Main Street, has 66 seats with a non-smoking section of 46, but the entire restaurant is non-smoking 75 percent of the time, during its peak hours.

Larger restaurants

The restaurants that have more than 75 seats are required to set aside 2,000 square feet of space for nonsmokers. Owners report separate non-smoking areas of one half of the space at the Andover Jade and Indian Ridge Country Club, to three-fourths at Dan & Frank's at the Ramada Hotel Rolling Green and the private dining room at Andover Country Club, to four-fifths at ParkSide at the Andover Marriott.

If a dining establishment has a separate lounge area, it is apt to have a ban in the main dining room. This is the case at the Andover Inn and Eighteen Elm Street.

"There has been a very positive reaction from about 97 percent of my patrons," said Alicia Parsons, manager of Eighteen Elm Street. She said the only complaint is about the lack of a cigarette machine. Patrons may smoke in her lounge, and in a small upstairs room.

Several managers and owners said they give customers what they want and people are increasingly requesting more non-smoking space.

Regarding the designation of space, Colin Webber, manager of the Ground Round, which is on South Main Street, said, "Only 10 percent of our customers are smokers. We set aside one-third of the space for them. The smoking area is too big. We are trying to make up a new area for non-smokers."

David Callahan, restaurant supervisor of ParkSide at the Andover Marriott Hotel, said with about 90 percent non-smokers he sometimes splits up the smoking section of 16 out of a total of 88 seats on a busy night.

On the other hand, Monice Odoari, manager of Grassfields Food & Spirits at Shawsheen Plaza, with 60 percent smoking, said it is easier to seat non-smokers than smokers because the smokers will wait for a table in a smoking section. She does not allow cigars or pipes.

Policy at banquet facilities

At Andover Country Club, Andover Inn, Andover Marriott Hotel and Ramada Hotel Rolling Green, the person doing the booking for a banquet to designate the policy.

Patrick McNamara, manager of the Andover Country Club, uses the above policy, but he suggests allowing smoking in the lounge, lobby and deck area in good weather and no-smoking in the banquet area.

"Last year about 60 percent of the functions were nonsmoking," said John Zirpoli, general manager of Ramada Hotel Rolling Green.

This is about the same number and policy at the Andover Marriott, reported Sue Wilson, banquet captain. She said she has noticed a higher trend to ban smoking at weddings and encourages guests to smoke in the foyer or outside.

Tighten the law?

There is definitely interest in tightening up the smoking regulations in town.

"My personal opinion is if the town bans smoking (in restaurants) that would be all right with me," said Mrs. DiBlasi of Santina's.

"I would support a non-smoking policy if the town goes nonsmoking," said Tom Koravos, manager of Ford's Coffee Shop, who acknowledged he really doesn't have a policy. Presently he allots a couple of the booths in the back to those who puff away.

Mr. Callahan of ParkSide Restaurant noted Newton has banned all smoking in restaurants as of the start of the year.

"It would certainly make my job much easier to have all non-smoking. I would certainly be a backer of all non-smoking. It's a question of logistics for me," he said.

Only My Brother's Place manager, Bill Antoniadis, voiced concern that a complete smoking ban in town restaurants might cause him to lose 20 percent of his business. He currently sets aside 16 of his 24 seats to non-smokers but said the breakdown is really 80 percent nonsmokers in his 12 Post Office Ave. eatery.

One respondent suggested there be more drive-in window establishments to allow people who wish to smoke to do so in their cars.

Smoking bylaw hearings

The Andover Board of Health considered changes to the smoking bylaw Monday evening. These will be discussed at the Board of Selectmen hearings in two weeks. Public input will be gathered Feb. 14 and townspeople will vote on the rules at Town Meeting in April.

Selectman calls for revaluation audit

By Don Staruk

Selectman Larry Larsen Monday night suggested the town arrange an audit of the figures for the recently completed property revaluation.

"I think the assessor needs an audit," Dr. Larsen told his fellow board members Monday night. "I think it's something we've got to do in some way."

Dr. Larsen said he wanted to take the action in response to feedback he's received from residents who are upset that less-expensive houses, those valued between roughly $100,000 and $200,000, saw "dramatic" increases in their assessments and recent tax bills, while those homes in the $200,000-plus range are lower than independent assessments.

He knows of half a dozen residents who are in the upper bracket who have had their homes independently appraised for refinancing purposes and the banks came up with figures significantly higher than the town's assessed values, Dr. Larsen said. Those people obviously are not the ones complaining, he said.

One man told him he had his house reappraised privately twice in the last two years, most recently in September of 1993, and both times it was valued at $275,000. The town assessed the house at $209,000.

"If that's true, if we've underrated those expensive homes, we've shifted the burden to smaller homes," Dr. Larsen said.

Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, said this week that that is not necessarily true.

The recent property revaluations are based on property values as of Jan. 1, 1993, which are arrived at by looking at property transactions in 1992. The market has changed since 1992, so it really isn't fair to compare a September 1993 appraisals to the revaluation figure, according to the town manager. Lower-end market homes were moving better in 1992 than the more expensive homes and therefore retained their values, Mr. Stapczynski said.

The 1993 market values will be reflected in the Jan. 1, 1994, valuation, which will be used in setting the 1995 tax rate.

Mr. Stapczynski said his house is one of those in the $250,000 range, and has a higher value now, according to the bank and a local realtor, than its Jan. 1, 1993, assessed value.

Bill Krajieski, assessor, said Wednesday that the only definite way to determine what a property is worth is by its sale price.

"The proof of the pudding is what it sells for," Mr. Krajieski said.

Anything else is speculation, he said. The assessors base their assessments on actual sale prices of like properties.

"There will always be exceptions," both in favor of the home owner and against, Mr. Krajieski said.

Selectman Gerald Silverman said there was plenty of time to question the revaluation process while it was being performed and that what is done is done for this time around. Dr.

Values set by assessors

There is a misconception in town that we would like to clear up right now.

The residential property revaluations that were performed earlier this year were done by a hired firm, but it was the assessors who set the values of all properties in town.

The misunderstanding, apparently by residents as well as town officials, continues to be that the firm, Patriot Properties Inc. of Peabody, set the values.

That is not the case. Patriot Properties performed the inspections and gathered the data while the town assessor, William Krajewski, and the Board of Assessors set those values. That was the method performed on residential property.

The method of revaluing industrial and commercial properties was a little different. Patriot Properties was not involved in that process. Mr. Krajewski and his staff conducted the inspections of C/I properties. He and the Board of Assessors also set those values.

Selectman Larry Larsen suggested at the board's Monday-night meeting that some of the residential assessments are not right. Selectmen suggested that the assessor and someone from Patriot Properties should come talk with the selectmen.

But all Patriot Properties did was count bathrooms and rooms, look at improvements made to residential properties, and submit that data to Andover's assessor's office.

It was the assessors who then took that information, fed it into a computer, and used that in coming up with the values.

Lani Guinier speaks at Phillips tonight

By Perry Colmore

Lani Guinier, professor at the University of Pennsylvania Law School and one-time nominee for assistant attorney general for civil rights, is speaking tonight at 8 at Phillips Academy's Cochran Chapel. The public is invited at no charge.

She's the woman who went to Yale Law School with President and Mrs. Clinton, and the one who started to speak out about race relations after the president revoked the nomination.

She delivered the keynote address today at the Black Women in the Academy Conference at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Now she says she is a different woman from the one who kept quiet during the confirmation hearings. She had been told, she says, not to speak, and she said she therefore could not be herself. She said the media and her opponents took control of her image.

Now she is working to ensure that other minorities' voices will be heard. She said women don't need to speak from anger, rather we speak because we have a gift. See page 18 for more about Ms. Guinier.

Talented soprano

Speaking of gifts, lyric soprano Laura Jeanne Bewig presented a concert of works by Handel, Schumann, Tchaikovsky and Rachmaninoff at Memorial Hall Library Sunday, in an event sponsored by the Friends of the Library. She has a lovely voice, I have heard her several times, but this time I was most impressed by her ability to sing in so many different languages - Italian, German, Russian, Spanish and English - and her ability to memorize so much material. She sang 19 songs during her concert, and she never consulted music, nor the program to recall what was next.

I asked her mother, Mary Bewig, how Laura retains that amount of music, and she said, "That's what we all wonder." I asked Laura's father, Carl, the same question, which produced more or less the same answer: a smile and a shrug of the shoulders.

Lani Guinier

Then I asked Laura the same question. "Practice," she said.

Community Calendar

Speaking of Ms. Bewig's concert, I will make another plea here for people and organizations to make use of the Andover Community Calendar. Three events occurred at the same time Sunday: Ms. Bewig's concert; the Andover Choral Society's concert, which I would like to have attended; and the ordination and installation of Kathy Musser at South Church.

Many groups are telling me way in advance about their events, but some aren't. Here's how the Community Calendar works: A person phones (475-1943) to ask if an event is scheduled for such-and-such a date. If it is not, then that event goes into the calendar, and then if another group calls and finds that date is taken, the event may be moved to another date.

So please use the Community Calendar.

Insulted smoker

Editor, Townsman:

I take exception to the picture you had in the Andover Townsman showing what smokers look like to non-smokers. [Jan. 6, page 1.] I think your paper was being very biased on this matter.

First of all, Mr. McCarron was in the smoking section of McDonald's restaurant and had the gall to ask the young women to put out their cigarettes. He should have waited for a seat in the non-smoking section of the restaurant.

McDonald's doesn't cater to just children. They cater to all walks of life. I think McDonald's is being fair to both sides as they provide seating for smokers and non-smokers. Studies on second-hand smoke are still (inconclusive) that it causes harm to non-smokers. I think the media has caused an uproar on this subject and we are being singled out.

Mr. McCarron said his child was only 2 pounds at birth. Is he blaming smokers for that too?

It is his choice if he chooses not to eat at McDonald's at this point. It is my choice to eat there and smoke in the smoking section.

The towns certainly don't mind taking the money from the taxes of cigarettes given to them every year. Where is the money going to?

Also our cigarette tax money is going to help the health reform program for all walks of life. I don't see the nonsmoker complaining about that issue. It almost seems like they are saying buy tobacco, but don't smoke. If the money was coming out of their pockets, they would all be up in arms over it!

Please be a little more kind when showing pictures on the front page of your paper of smokers. We happen to have feelings and are human beings too.

Three cheers for Andover's downtown

Editor, Townsman:

My heart belongs to Andover. It skipped a beat when I returned after a three-month sojourn.

It was Dec. 3. I drove southerly on Main Street in the evening and saw all the trees on both sides of the street dressed in tiny, twinkling white lights. Upstairs at Vincenzo's, the diners hugged the inside windows. A new restaurant, new bagel shop, a "Chocolates by Design" candy store, a classy, classic Kaps and a resplendent Royal Jewelers decked out in gold, mauve and malachite columns. A bank on the corner sported a new clock.

Something was happening at the old post office. A face lift? There was a baseball card shop for the kiddos and a funky furniture store for the eclectic at Olde Andover Village. I noted a lilliputian Dunkin Donuts in orange and pink. (Well, I could live without their banner). The next morning I had a perfect coffee at Perfecto's.

I'm sure there are more discoveries for me. This is a new Andover for the '90s, blending the old and new facades nicely. And more important is the vote of confidence for brisk business. I give three cheers for Andover.

RECYCLING

Residents can now recycle steel cans at curbside every other week

By Virginia Cole

Tin cans can and should go in your blue bin for recycling every other week.

You all have received the yellow 1994 recycling calendar, which was mailed the first of the year. The new contract has been signed, and steel cans, called tin cans by most of us, will be picked up curbside. The state has banned them from the incinerator, so put them in your blue bin.

They should be rinsed out and crushed if possible. Cans with bottoms that cannot be removed with a can opener can only be partially flattened. In fact, I think flattened is a better word than crushed. I do mine with my hands; kids love to stamp on them. Rinse them before you store them.

Aluminum cans are not recycled in the blue bin. Most of them are 5-cent deposit returned anyway. Those you can't or don't want to take back to the grocery store can go to the once-a-month collection at West Middle School.

The rest of the 1994 calendar is similar to last year. Paper and all colors of glass go into Recycling of plastics and aluminum is this Saturday, 9 a.m. until 1 p.m. in the parking lot at West Middle School.

the blue bin. Two kinds of plastic and aluminum go to the West Middle School collection on the third Saturday of each month, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. Button batteries can be returned for recycling to the places listed on the calendar - these are various town offices and places where you bought your batteries.

Waste motor oil has a recycling center in North Andover twice a month, second Wednesday, 4 to 7 p.m., and second Saturday, 9 a.m. to noon. Household hazardous waste will be collected when the Board of Health can make the arrangements and will be announced in local papers.

Save your yellow calendar for all recycling information.

Selectman Larsen questions revaluation

Larsen disagreed.

"I want some kind of post audit. The very least we can do is respond," Dr. Larsen said.

Mr. Silverman suggested that the assessor come in to talk with the board after the deadline date for filing abatement requests has passed. That date is Wednesday, Jan. 26. Dr. Larsen asked that a representative from Patriot Properties, the company that performed the residential property inspections, come in at the same time.

Who did assessments?

Selectman James Barenboim and Dr. Larsen continued to talk about two points Monday night: the fact that the revaluations should not have been divided between the private contractor and town employees; and that the board was unaware that the responsibility was to be split. Some residents have protested that allowing two different groups to work on revaluations was not a balanced or fair approach.

The inspections were performed by two different groups of people, but the data gathered by those inspectors was used by the Board of Assessors to set all property values.

But there is a difference between performing property inspections and setting property values. Patriot Properties was only hired to perform residential property inspections, to count how many bathrooms and porches houses had, and compile that data for the assessor's office.

The assessor and the Board of Assessors then used that data, along with the data gathered by town employees on commercial and industrial properties, to set all the property values in town. Patriot Properties did not set any values.

Any analytical work Patriot employees did or recommendations they made were reviewed by the assessors, according to Mr. Krajewski. The Board of Assessors consists of Archibald MacLaren, John Petty and Mr. Krajewski.

"As far as I'm concerned, the Board of Assessors is responsible for every single value in the community," Mr. Krajewski said.

And the fact that the inspection duties were to be split was publicized.

As far back as April 8, 1993, prior to the start of the inspections, the Townsmen published articles that included statements from Mr. Krajewski that the $125,000 approved at the Nov. 9, 1992, Special Town Meeting was earmarked to pay a private contractor to inspect all residential properties, and that town employees would inspect all commercial and industrial property. That point was reiterated in subsequent articles as the selectmen and Townsmen followed the progress of the revaluation inspections.

"I thought we were pretty much out front with that," Mr. Krajewski said.

Again, the inspections were performed by two different groups of people, but the data gathered by those inspectors was used by the Board of Assessors to set all property values. The formulas to attain those values were also all devised by the assessor and the Board of Assessors, and the entire process used was ultimately approved by the state Department of Revenue.

Andover icemen post victory

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High varsity hockey program has progressed to the point where Coach Bill Cullen is not doing handstands and turning cartwheels over every 9-2 victory.

The Golden Warriors remained undefeated through the first third of the season, improving to 5-0-1 after beating Dracut by seven goals at Merrimack College, but it was not a vintage performance.

Chalk it up to the caliber of the opposition (Dracut fell to 0-5-0), and the fact Andover was unable to practice the day before because of a conflict with another event at the Phillips Academy Rink.

Whatever the reasons, it wasn't until a six-goal third period that AHS finally broke the game open.

"It took some time for us to get our legs and our attitude for the game," admitted Coach Cullen. "We played 15 good minutes of hockey (third period), but I'd like to think not being able to skate the previous day had something to do with it."

Last weekend's snowstorm postponed a scheduled game at Wilmington.

Andover hosts archrival Methuen this evening (5:15 p.m.) at Merrimack College, the Rangers also off to a fast start (6-2-0).

Things won't get any easier on Sunday afternoon (3:45 p.m.) at MC, when the Warriors face off against a high-flying Tewksbury squad (6-2-0) they are expected to battle to the wire for Merrimack Valley Conference Small School Division honors this winter.

Tewksbury dropped its first two games to traditional powers Matignon and Acton-Boxboro by tight 4-2 and 3-2 scores respectively, and since have reeled off six straight victories including a pair in Maine to win the Winslow Christmas Classic.

After six games Chris Cullen and Scott Sullivan pace the balanced AHS scoring attack with 11 points apiece. Cullen has seven goals, four assists and Sullivan five goals, six assists. Close behind are Marc Escott (2-8-10), goalscoring leader Todd Thistle (8-1-9), Dana DiFiore (3-5-8), Paul Allard (2-6-8) and Bob Daley (2-6-8).

Andover has outscored its first six opponents by a wide 37-9 margin.

Seven players scored goals and 15 figured in the offense with at least one point.

Senior center Bob Daley got the winners off to a quick start with an unassisted goal 54 seconds into the game, his blistering shot from outside the blue line whistling over Dracut goaltender Ryan St. Hilaire's shoulder. But St. Hilaire stopped the other 13 shots he faced in the period, and the Middles' Chris Sawyer tied it at 2:59 of the second stanza when he slipped the puck behind junior goalie Peter Afarian.

Andover struggled to regain a 3-1 advantage by the end of the period, Allard setting up Sullivan.

AHS boys basketball team stretches win streak to five

By Rick Harrison

The 1993-94 Andover High boys basketball team has not yet learned how to take the easy road to victory.

Following a one-point decision over Methuen in the championship game of the Greater Lawrence Christmas Tournament, the Golden Warriors opened their Merrimack Valley Conference season with a pair of hard-fought victories over stubborn Wilmington and the same Rangers' squad that wouldn't quit in the tourney.

Coach Dave Fazio's squad needed a first-half wakeup call before overcoming a huge deficit en route to a 70-65 triumph against Wilmington.

And it wasn't until a Methuen three-pointer at the buzzer bounced off the back rim that Andover nailed down a 45-42 victory, one that saw Methuen battle back from a seven-point deficit with 3:35 to play on a five-point hole with just 12 seconds left.

The two triumphs stretched the Warriors' win streak through five games, but four of those victories have come by margins of six or fewer points.

Andover kept its amazing perfect record against Wilmington, which has never beaten the Golden Warriors in boys varsity basketball during the 30 years the teams have played one another.

The Wildcats have now dropped 52 straight, including one in overtime and another by a single point at the buzzer.

"I know we haven't played our best basketball yet," cautioned Coach Dave Fazio. "And I don't see the talent dropping off any time in the near future. Even though we lost four outstanding sophomores (transfers), our freshman have crushed everyone so far and the junior varsity has a winning record."

Andover, priming for brutal back-to-back games on the road at New Bedford (Sunday, Jan. 23) and at archrival Lowell (Friday, Jan. 28), took a 5-1 record to Tewksbury earlier this week with Coach

Fazio looking for a good old-fashioned blowout against the struggling Redmen (1-4).

The defending MVC Large School Division champions return home to host talented Haverhill (6-1) tomorrow night (7:45 p.m.).

Through six games Kirk Stockwood continued to lead the scoring parade with 118 points (19.7 average), including 15 three-pointers, while Eric Danis had 90 points (15.0 average), Matt Gibson 48 and Tom Tamin 46.

Basketball tourney is for fifth- and sixth-graders

The seventh annual New England Fifth and Sixth Grade Boys Basketball Tournament will be held at St. Augustine's in Lawrence. The event will start Friday, Jan. 28, in the St. Augustine Gymnasium on Ames Street.

Any fifth- and sixth-grade team is eligible to enter. Information and applications can be obtained by contacting John Vitulli, 35 Monterey Drive, Methuen, Mass. 01844, 682-4902.

Andover High gymnasts tumble over Chelmsford

By Rick Harrison

With juniors Irene Shui and Lisa Cinotta chalking up individual victories, the Andover High girls gymnastics team made an impressive 1994 dual meet debut with a resounding 125.05 to 113.90 Merrimack Valley Conference victory over Chelmsford.

The majority of the Lady Warriors' scoring was done by underclassmen, including two freshmen whose first taste of varsity gymnastics resulted in superb performances.

The triumph was the 22nd in the last 27 dual meets and 37th in the last 46 for the locals.

A second meet with Billerica, the original season opener, was postponed by snow and tentatively re-scheduled for Friday night, Feb. 4 at Billerica (7 p.m.).

Although the season has just started, it appears crystal clear that the league title this winter will go to either Andover or Dracut.

The Middies, with a pair of star attractions including sophomore sensation and probable State individual champ-to-be Missy Perritano, are 2-0-0 thus far with lopsided victories over Tewksbury and Lowell.

Showdown

Both the Lady Warriors and Dracut are scoring in the 125-point range, which means the league title should be determined next Tuesday afternoon when Andover hosts Dracut at the Dunn Gym (3:30 p.m.).

"I know our scores will get higher," said AHS Coach Julie Curtis. "We scored 125 against Chelmsford even though we didn't have anyone with an 8.0 or above in floor. We'll be grabbing at least another two points in floor, and if we can elimi-

Track teams thrash Wilmington

By Rick Harrison

A pair of convincing dual meet wins over Wilmington High, and several strong performances at the annual State Coaches Girls Invitational Meet at Harvard University, made for a very successful week for Andover High track teams.

Both the boys and girls squads bounced back from lopsided losses to thrash much weaker Wilmington squads at the Methuen High Field House.

The AHS boys improved to 3-1-0 overall with a 56-30 romp while the Lady Warriors, now 2-1-1, routed the Wildcats 64-22.

Both Andover teams were scheduled for tough tests yesterday against traditional intra-town archrival Phillips Academy, while Alvirne High of Hudson, N.H. was also expected to jump in to make it a tri-meet.

Next Monday morning at Methuen High (10 a.m.) Coach Art Iworsley's teams return to MVC dual meet activity against Haverhill.

This Saturday underclassmen from both squads will also participate in Division 1 of the annual Auerbach Freshman-Sophomore Meet at M.I.T. in Cambridge.

The Lady Warriors placed first in seven events and swept the 50 dash, 300 dash and two-mile.

AHS winners were Jamie Barron in the 50 dash (6.7), Amy Levesque in the 300 dash (42.3), senior Valerie Gould in the 600 run (1:43.8), Sarah Witman who shifted to the 1000 for this meet and remained undefeated in duals (3:04.7), miler Erin Collins who also remained unbeaten in the MVC (5:59.9), senior Captain Madhavi Reddy in the deuce (13:46.9) and Rebecca Goldenberg in the high jump (4'6").

Miss Goldenberg also placed second in the 50 hurdles (8.4) for an eight-point day, while a fatigued Stacey Lavoie took the afternoon off and did not compete in the hurdles.

Completing the sweep of the 50 were second place Randi Spiegel (6.8) and third place sophomore Laura Burkle (6.9).

Finishing 2-3 in the 300 were Julie Rozopoulos (43.6) and Kim Young (43.8), and cleaning house in the two-mile were Kelly Cronin (13:58.9) and sophomore Ellen Buckley (13:59.9).

Other AHS runners-up were freshman Kolleen Cronin in the 1000 run (3:12.7), senior miler Sarah Goldin (6:23.8) and sophomore Carol Cunningham in the shot put.

Completing the scorers in third place were Miss Cunningham in the hurdles (8.8), junior Jessica Banos in the 600 run (1:50.3) and sophomore Christine Contos in the high jump (4'6").

The defending MVC Large School champs won for the 14th time in their last 15 meets, placing first in seven events and sweeping the 1000.

Three distance runners continued unbeaten in dual meets for the Golden Warriors, as senior Captain Max Dawson won the two-mile (10:43.7), sophomore Charlie Russo captured the mile run (4:48.5) and junior Matt nate the falls on beam and the slips on bars there's no telling how high we can go.

"It's early in the season and I'm not worried at all. Most of the other team scores I've seen from around the area and the South Shore have all been lower," added Coach Curtis.

Even Westford Academy, the defending State champion with several returning gymnasts, has only been the the 123-125 point range its first two meets.

Andover hosts defending MVC titlist Methuen, without Robin Beeley, in its home opener tomorrow and then preps for the Dracut invasion next Tuesday.

CFreshmen shine

Freshman Mara Shiff had an impressive AHS debut with a second place in floor exercise (7.95) and a tie for third in vaulting (8.3).

Freshman Katie

Rouillard's first varsity meet was also a treat, as she tied for third place on the balance beam with an 8.05 and added a fourth in floor exercise (7.5).

Junior Sara Weir scored 7.8 for third place in floor exercise, and senior Captain Stacy Thresher as solid on beam with a 7.7 score for fifth place.

Chelmsford standout Becky Harris won the all-around with a 33.25 score, which included first place finishes on bars (8.25) and floor (8.65), a tie for third on the beam (8.05) and a tie for third in vaulting (8.3).

Time for Lady W's to show assertion

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High girls basketball team must begin to stand on its own two feet and assert itself. The time for "hiding" behind the curtain of inexperience is over.

Coach George Sullivan, disappointed after the Lady Warriors fell apart in the second half of a 64-34 loss to powerful Methuen earlier this week, said his team can no longer "use our youth (only one senior) as a crutch."

"It's okay for the first few games, but sooner or later it becomes a tired old excuse," said Coach Sullivan. "Methuen has a young team, too, but they're flying high right now (6-1)."

The setback to Methuen, which followed a 57-51 victory over Wilmington, left the Andover girls at 3-1 in the Merrimack Valley Conference Large School Division but only 3-5 overall.

The Lady Warriors played at winless Tewksbury (0-6) on Tuesday night, and tomorrow night possibly the top team in the state invades the Dunn Gym as perennial power Haverhill (7-0) comes to town for a 6 p.m. game.

"Our goal this season, regardless of whether we make the states (tournament) or not, is to progress every week. We want to be like the (New England) Patriots and be playing our best and toughest ball at the end of the season," said Coach Sullivan.

And that means no more second halves like the Methuen game.

Rachel Buonopane led the Andover girls in scoring after eight games with 74 points, Leah Mason and Kate Jurdi had 55 each, Amanda Verreault and Sue Tully 40 points apiece.

Andover 57
Wilmington 51
The Lady Warriors

broke their early-season mold by moving out to a nine-point lead at the half (24-15), expanding the advantage to as many as 17 points after the break, and then fighting off a furious late-game charge by the scrappy Wildcats.

"In the first half we ran the offense as well as we have all season," said Coach Sullivan. "And we came out smoking at the start of the second half. Our girls were doing a lot of nice things. Our press was working well and we were making great passes to break the Wilmington press."

"After we went ahead by 17 I think we got a little too cocky. There were a few substitutions made and all of a sudden we weren't going to the right spots on the floor to break their press."

"When the lead started to dwindle, instead of regrouping we began to panic," said Coach Sullivan. "Wilmington never took the lead, but they cut it all the way down to two points with about seven minutes left. It was a scrapping match from there until the final buzzer."

The Wildcats cut the deficit to two points for the final time with just 1:12 remaining, but the clutch work of senior guard and team Captain Rachel Buonopane enabled Andover to capture its third MVC victory.

"Rachel made some great passes, crucial baskets against their press and other excellent plays down the stretch," said Coach Sullivan.

"I think we were a little rusty after having three days off, but we went right back to basics in practice the next day."

St. Robert's A, B victors in ACBL senior girls action

Michelle King banked in an eight-foot shot with two seconds left to play, lifting St. Robert's B to a come-from-behind 10-9 victory over St. Augustine A in their recent Andover Church Basketball League Girls Senior Division thriller at Andover High.

In the other Senior contest, Jenna Hartwell scored 10 points and took over the division scoring lead as St. Robert's A moved back into first place alone with a 28-14 triumph over St. Augustine B.

Miss Hartwell now has 23 points, two more than SAB's Kelly Walsh (21), while Jennifer Powers of St. Augustine A and Tricia Griffin of St. Augustine B are tied for third at 16 points each.

St. Robert's B, 10-9

Michelle King's only basket of the game couldn't have been timed any better, as she knocked St. Augustine A from its share of first place with the game-winner at 0:02.

Both teams left the floor with 2-2 overall records.

SRB, which entered the final quarter trailing by four points, outscored SAA 6-1 as Brenna O'Connor also scored a field goal and Kerry Ford converted two free throws.

Rounding out the winners' offense were Jessica Smith with a basket, Allison MacRae and Jennifer Mann with single free throws.

Nicole Menschel and Allison McClearn also played well for St. Robert's B.

Caroline Torrisi scored the only two field goals of the game for St. Augustine A, both in the third period, while Jennifer Powers hit 4-of-7 foul shots and Susan Provencher added a fourth-quarter free throw.

Jessie Fontanella, Susanne Meeker and Lauren Roda were other SAA standouts.

St. Robert's A, 28-14

SRA, alone at the top with a 3-1 record, was led by guard Jenna Hartwell's 10 points, the aggressive play of forward Jackie White and the all-around effort of Erin Croteau.

Miss White and Miss Croteau tossed in 6 points each for the winners, who raced to a 20-4 halftime lead and then coasted.

Adding single baskets for St. Robert's A were Laura Fish, Monica Turbett and Lori Volpe, while Katherine Blais was a defensive standout.

St. Augustine B sorely missed former division scoring leader and top rebounder Kelly Walsh.

In her absence Tricia Griffin and Katelyn Nugent led the offense with 4 points each, while other baskets were scored by Catherine Kannam, Sarah O'Brien and Shauna Robb.

Carey Levine and Melanie Dennis also played well for SAB.

Lost to prejudice . . .

Christmas break, April vacation and summer he can remember visiting his biological father in Texas. There, during the summer between his ninth- and tenth-grade years, seven friends joined the KKK. Two of the seven, he said, were his good friends.

"It was sad having them join," said Mr. Holley. "I told them, 'I can't be your friend and still like myself. My values mean more to me, I'm sorry, than your friendship.'"

"I like the people down there for their warmth. It makes it tough to lose friends, too, because you know how warm and good they were to you."

Mr. Holley is careful to note that bigotry and ignorance are not just problems in the Houston area or in the South.

"Some people are more open-minded down there because they see what happens," he said. "Up here people are afraid to say it. It's more of that hushed-hushed bigotry."

Brandon Holley is a senior at Andover High School. He is a member of Amnesty International, American Field Service, Project Teamwork, the Civil Air Patrol and he is a shot-putter on the track team. While taking a leadership course as part of training for the Civil Air Patrol he learned, "Teamwork is everything."

"He's a typical kid as far as everything else is concerned. But he's a little different because he's so involved," said Dexter Jenkins, project coordinator at Northeastern University for Project Teamwork. "In the two years I've been with the program he's been one of the kids who stood out."

Mr. Holley wrote a poem about the riots in Los Angeles following the Rodney King verdict. One of the statements in the poem was that he would always remember and carry the experience with him. Today, said Mr. Jenkins, many Project Teamwork members at Northeastern keep the poem near their desk for inspiration. Project Teamwork also plans to use the poem as part of a pamphlet, and the members would like Mr. Holley to read his work as a voice-over in a film they are producing.

Although Mr. Holley likes the High School and believes the faculty does all it can, he said there are problems. "Here, there's a lot of homophobia right now. There's anti-Semitism. You should stand up and ask questions. You should ask why," he said, "instead of being submissive."

Asking questions has been a part of Mr. Holley's life since he was little. "When you are 5 or 6 you always ask how or why or what do you mean," he said.

Mr. Holley continues to ask questions. He doesn't always like the answers. In the summer before his sophomore year at AHS, for instance, he asked a Texan he considered a good friend what he was doing that night.

"Oh, I'm going to a meeting," his buddy responded.

"What meeting?"

"Nothing you'd be interested in."

It turned out to be the KKK.

"And I said, 'With who?' And he told me he was going with his family," said Mr. Holley. "He knew better, but his will wasn't strong enough. Because he grew up with his parents, his dad saying this and that."

According to Mr. Holley, the family had moved out of their neighborhood because a Mexican had moved there. "I knew his dad. I thought he was ignorant. He was a bigot."

Mr. Holley and a friend also had to cut ties with another boy, a lifeguard, who had punctured holes in his kickboard in the shape of a swastika.

Mr. Jenkins, of Project Teamwork, said he doesn't know of anyone in Massachusetts losing a friend to the KKK.

"They've lost friends to peer pressure, but not to any organized group," he said.

In Andover, Mr. Holley said he rarely notices swastikas, though "you'll see it on a couple of desks."

When he sees it, however, it bothers him substantially. "Brandon has always taken it as his life's work," said Mr. Jenkins. "But this is something that he really believes in. I wish I could say that about all the kids."

Pick up your baby!

Finally...

A better birthing experience.

Now you can labor, deliver and recover in the most modern, comfortable and private birthing suite available anywhere. Compare this to other hospitals where you labor and deliver in one room—then move to a different room for recovery—and you'll see that we're serious about alleviating unnecessary labor pains.

As you would expect of the area's leading maternity hospital, Lawrence General's progressive attitude gives you plenty of latitude. You can have a prepared childbirth if you wish. Or, if you choose to have medication, The General offers 24-hour anesthesia, including epidurals. And we were the first hospital in the area to offer Patient Controlled Analgesia (the PCA pump), which allows you to control the amount and frequency of medication you want.

No matter how you decide to deliver you'll have the most supportive and skilled nurses at your side. They'll be helping you from the moment you arrive until you're ready to leave for home. After you're home you can call directly to the maternity nurses station, if you have questions about caring for your newborn.

If there's a baby in your future, consider all the benefits of delivering at The General. Call (508) 683-4000, ext. 2272 and ask for our maternity brochure. If you would like to see for yourself, tours are conducted by individual appointment. We'd be proud to show you our new creation.

Now that construction is complete at
The Birthplace,
we can talk on another level.

We're pleased to announce the opening of the area's only Level II
Special Care Nursery.

Now, premature and high-risk babies can receive a level of care that was previously unavailable so close to home.

Our new unit is equipped and staffed to handle births up to eight weeks premature, and treat the many medical problems associated with an early birth. We have the type of specially-trained staff who know how to care for mother and baby in times of crisis.
A neonatologist or pediatrician is on duty
24 hours a day.

The bottom line is, you can feel more confident knowing that you and your baby can get the type of care you deserve, right here.

Of course, no one wants to have a problem delivery.
But isn't it nice to know that there is a place that's close to home if you do? That place is
The Birthplace.

For more information on our new level of care and a free maternity kit, call us at 1-508-937-6425.
